AFRICAN-INSPIRED TILES

The ceramic tiles of the Namibia collection from Lunada Bay Tile are designed to evoke the landscapes of Africa's South Atlantic coastal desert. The three-dimensional designs translate the vistas into four distinctive designs, with each tile handcrafted using a hand-sculpting technique. Shown is Round Ripples in White Sand, which elicits the effect of a worn shell or stone revealed under the windblown sand, the firm states. Tiles are also offered in Dark Silver and Sunset Bronze.

TORTOISE SHELL-INSPIRED HARDWARE

BLUSH FAUCET FINISH

Blush by THG Paris represents a harmonious marriage of traditional copper and rose gold. PVD, or Physical Vapor Deposition, is a process that fuses the finish to the product, rather than covering it, creating a long-lasting surface finish with a tactile luster that is resistant to most household chemicals, impervious to metal corrosion, scratch-proof and tarnish-free, according to the firm. Blush is available on THG's handcrafted collections of faucets and accessories.
